Statement from Chancellor Dubois

December 10, 2019

Good afternoon, colleagues:

I am writing to give you an update on the One IT Project.

I have personally read through the second round of feedback to the Berry Dunn recommendations. We received many thoughtful and helpful comments as well as some that suggested fundamental misunderstandings about what is intended. There were also a few issues raised that have warranted a further review of and adjustments to the recommendations. I have asked Mike Carlin to work with Berry Dunn to get this done in a timely manner. After ITS and Berry Dunn complete the review and make the necessary adjustments to the recommendations, I will issue my final decision.

You can expect to see something early in the week of January 13, 2020. I hope at that time to clarify some of the areas where the changes being suggested are not as draconian as some might believe.

Thank you for remaining engaged in this process.

Cordially,

Philip L. Dubois
Chancellor
